“Mynee & Moe’s Chatter Box”

Mynee: “Hey Moe !” Moe do not forget that your club dues are due now. You can pay at the meeting or you can mail it to the clubs P.O. Box.

Moe: Thanks Mynee, I almost forgot about that. I will take care of that just as soon as I get done reading the new January newsletter.

Mynee: Good idea, if you do not you will not get it anymore and then you will have no idea what is going to happen from month to month at the general meetings, as to: Speakers, workshops, presentations by members, that kind of stuff ok.

Moe: Thanks Mynee, it is cheap enough, only $ 25.00 for a Family Membership.

Mynee: Speaking of the $25.00 dollar dues. Two of our members who attended the Christmas Party each won a gift certificate for $25.00, from two of our local computer stores. (Complete Computer Care, Best Buy) Also everyone who attended won at least two prizes in the drawings, some won even more. What do you think about that?

Moe: Yeah, that was a nice party, I won some neat stuff and the food, “Oh Boy” that was great too. I loved the meatballs, they were great, I wonder who made them?

Mynee: I do not know who it was but maybe we can find out and then publish it in the newsletter so that everyone can taste them.

Moe: Hey that sounds good, maybe we can get our members to submit their favorite home made recipe so it can be shared with the club members, wouldn't that be cool!

Mynee: Hey I just spoke with the Board and they told me that they were going to give an extra ticket for the prizes if I found my name in the newsletter when I read it. It would look like this I was told*Mynee* and hidden somewhere in the text of the letter.

Moe: You know that is a great idea. Why didn't we think of it.

Mynee: I have another great idea but I need to speak to the board at the next board meeting which is on the 4th of January, 2006. I will let you know what they say next month.

PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Our January meeting will be held one week earlier than usual due to the annual Senior Center floor polishing. It will be January 11th for this month only. The program for the month will be on digital photography. Back in October, the Digital Photo Guy gave an excellent presentation on digital photography in general. This meeting will be focused on getting pictures out of your digital camera, into the computer, and getting prints on paper. If you are lucky enough to get a new digital camera for Christmas, be sure to make it to the January meeting so you can get some practical advice on using it!

The next months meeting on February 15th will be a workshop on computers etc:

COMPUTER TIP # 1 IS THIS SITE SECURE?

Want to make sure the site you're about to give your information to is safe and secure? Look for the little lock in the corner of your web browser and double check that the URL starts with https://, not just http:// (got to... have that "s"). Like this:

COMPUTER TIP # 2

Q: I can't seem to get any attachments in my email. Outlook Express says that it removed "unsafe attachments" from my email. How can I start getting attachments again?

A: Constant bombardment from internet villains makes me wonder if WWW actually stands for "Wild, Wild West"! We yearn for safe*Roxanne Claypool* browsing. We long to send and receive email without being harassed. That's why we install anti-virus software and firewalls. That's why browsers and email programs have security settings.

But sometimes, too much security can cause other problems. Anyone who has upgraded to Outlook Express 6 or bought a new computer may be experiencing an error message like this:

"Outlook Express removed access to the following unsafe attachments in your mail..."

Why is this happening? When faced with mysterious problems, blame it on Microsoft!

By default, the "Do not allow attachments to be saved or opened that could potentially be a virus" option (hereafter called DNAATBSOOTCPBAV) is enabled in OE 6. When this virus-protection feature is on, OE uses Explorer's unsafe file list to determine if a file is safe. Any e-mail attachment with a file type that is considered "unsafe" is not downloaded, and access to the attachment is removed.

The unsafe file list includes any file types that may have script or code associated with them. Thus, you may find that you can't receive the pictures from your cousin's wedding, or the mp3 of your grandson's first words. All is not lost...you can avoid this problem by turning off the DNAATBSOOTCPBAV option.

Start Outlook Express. On the Tools menu, click Options.

Click the "Security" tab, click to clear the DNAATBSOOTCPBAV check box under "Virus Protection", and then click OK.

You should, of course, be scanning all attachments with anti-virus software anyway, which makes the extra OE6 security unnecessary. Netscape Mail does not have any similar security features that could cause a problem like this. Most web-based email (such as Yahoo or Hotmail) allow you to scan for viruses before you download attachments.

The Poetry Archive

I'm really excited! This is a fantastic poetry site. Not only can you search for poems to read, you can also listen to them. (Note: You need to have RealPlayer installed on your computer to listen to the poets).

I've been browsing here for several hours now, lost in poem after poem. When you listen to a poem, they suggest another and I just keep clicking and listening. I love hearing the different accents and dialects that each poet offers.

There are several ways to enjoy this site. You can take a guided tour, search for poets or poems, or listen to the featured poets on the front page and surf like I did from poem to poem.

Guided Tour – these really show the range of poetry on the site. You can see the poems listed and then click your back button to listen to the next one on the list. I enjoyed both tours that were available and am looking forward to more.

Search – looking for poets or poems is an easy way to check out this site. You can either type in a poem or poet in the search engine and click 'Go,' or you can use the alphabet to search by a poet's last name, or poem title.

For Teachers – this is a great section for teachers who use poetry in their classrooms to teach. There are lesson plans, tips for listening and even classroom activity ideas.

For Students – have an English class that requires you to study poetry? Or are you taking a poetry class at college? Well, this site has a special section just for students. Here you will find instructions on how to get the most out of the resources that are provided.

The Children's Archive – this was a great find. I love this section. This is where you can let your kids surf to learn, listen, and read poetry in a child friendly format.

Interviews – you'll find these spread around the site. I couldn't find an interview page where they were all listed, but there are some great interviews out there.

After having spent way too much time here I found a few favorites – I really enjoyed Valerie Bloom.
